NOTE

The work here printed has been growing up in the note-books of Mr. Gordon Duff for nearly thirty years, and is mainly based on his own first-hand collations of books in libraries scattered all over the country. But while the bulk of the work was already done when Mr. Duff consented to its publication by the Society, some books still remained to be described, and the titles written out at various times were naturally not of uniform fullness. Much has been done in completing his material by Mr. Duff himself, but at the request of the Council, and with Mr. Duff's consent, Mr. Henry Thomas, Litt.D., of the British Museum, has given help of great value in describing some of the omitted books, extending the shorter titles, and selecting specimens of types for the facsimiles. This work has all been done in communication with Mr. Duff and under his control, but it is right that Mr. Thomas's share should be fully noted, both because of the debt which the Society owes him for it, and because it has introduced an element into the work for which Mr. Duff is only partly responsible.

In addition to the thanks due to Mr. Duff and Mr. Thomas the Society is indebted to numerous private collectors and owners of libraries for lending or giving other facilities for the examination of their books.

The gratitude of the Society is also due to His Majesty's Government for the grant of the sum of One Hundred Pounds from the Special Service Fund as a contribution to the cost of completing and producing this book. After all that has happened in the intervening years it seems one of the smaller ironies of history that the privilege of publishing a work which must be taken as the foundation-stone of any future attempt at a national bibliography was obtained for the Society as a result of its efforts to co-operate with the German Commission for a General Catalogue of Incunabula in 1912–13. An article in The Times drew Mr. Asquith's attention to the desirability of this country registering its own fifteenth-century books as a contribution to the larger work, and elicited the grant, which has enabled the book to be fully illustrated.

ALFRED W. POLLARD,

Hon. Sec.

•/ A CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF TH

PREFACE

The task on which the compiler of the present book set out, light-heartedly, some twenty-eight years ago, was at first limited to a short description and collation of all known English fifteenth-century books, to be collected from the various bibliographical works and the catalogues of public and private libraries. It soon became apparent that this simple object was beset with difficulties. Books printed by Caxton had been more or less fully described by Blades in his Life and Typography of William Caxton, but there were no special studies on the books from other presses, and in the description of single books the different bibliographers rarely agreed.

Gradually, as opportunity occurred, their accounts were corrected from the originals in the British Museum, the Bodleian, and the Cambridge University Library. In the meanwhile a more ambitious plan took shape. The descriptions of bibliographers were to be ignored, and every available book personally examined and described.

As opportunity offered, the books in our three great libraries were collated afresh and on a more detailed plan. Next, the libraries in Scotland, those of the University, the Faculty of Advocates, and the Writers to the Signet at Edinburgh, the Hunterian Museum at Glasgow, and the University Libraries of Aberdeen and St. Andrews were visited. Finally the College Libraries of Oxford and Cambridge, some of the Cathedral Libraries, and semi-public collections like that at Bamburgh Castle were laid under contribution. The Spencer collection, transferred to Manchester in 1893, and the Bennett Library, added to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan's collections, afforded much additional matter, while some very scarce early books were seen in other American libraries.

By the kindness of private owners many books, of which there were no examples in any of the public libraries, were made available for examination.

From the examination of so many books certain date-tests were evolved—the breaks and changes in woodcuts and devices, and the introduction or modification of types, by means of which many of the undated books could be more accurately placed. This entailed a fresh examination of the books and more journeys to many of the libraries.

When the first proofs of the book were struck off the descriptions were as far as possible checked and corrected with the books themselves, and the verification of all the small details was only brought to a close by the rigid restrictions on the access to books made necessary by the war.

During all this period fresh discoveries were being made, and it is calculated that during the last twenty years some fifty-four books, or, in most cases, fragments of books, so far unknown, have come to light. It is wonderful by how slender a chance the existence of many of our early English books has been preserved.

Roughly speaking, one half of the books here chronicled are now known only from single copies, from a leaf or two, or even from fragments of a leaf. The sole remains of The Ghost of Guy, a quarto printed by Pynson early in his career, are two small strips of paper with portions of four lines of verse on either side. Another of Pynson's early quartos, the Seven Wise Masters of Rome, is represented by two leaves. The majority of such fragments have been recovered from old bindings where they have been used to line the boards, or pasted together to make the boards themselves. From this source it is to be hoped that there are still new discoveries to be made.

Certain other books, of which no traces now remain, can be proved with reasonable probability to have once existed. When we find scattered in various books odd woodcuts which manifestly belong to a series intended to illustrate a particular book, we are justified in supposing that that book was printed. In a number of books De Worde used cuts belonging to sets illustrating Reynard the Fox and the Seven Wise Masters of Rome. No trace of fifteenth-century editions have been found, but we are justified in supposing that they were printed.

Again, certain books were issued in pairs: the Pars Hiemalis and Pars Estivalis of the Breviary, the Expositio Hymnorum and Expositio Sequentiarum, Garlandia's Synonyma and Equivoca, and, very frequently, the Liber Festivalis and Quattuor Sermones. Where the one half exists, the former existence of the other half may be presumed. There is one class of document here chronicled in which many new discoveries may be hoped for, the Bulls, Proclamations, and Indulgences, printed on one side of a single sheet. They were ephemeral publications, soon out of date and invalid, and, having a blank side, lent themselves admirably to the purpose of lining bindings. Even when preserved as documents they are not to be sought for in a library, but stowed away in charter-chests and muniment-rooms, where it is probable that many still lie unnoticed.

In the present volume the single sheet woodcuts and Images of Pity have not been included as being rather outside its scope, but it is hoped that they may be described and reproduced at some future date. With regard to the typographical index at the end of the volume a word or two of explanation are necessary. Owing to the large number of books known only from imperfect copies or fragments, the types used in them are not ascertainable, and the list is therefore so far incomplete. Again, as regards the measurements, given in millimetres, of twenty lines of type. These are as far as possible the measurements of the type as normally used, but it is clear that almost all the early English printers well understood what is now called 'leading', that is, producing a greater space between the lines by inserting slips of metal, so that we find the same type often with two, sometimes with three, different measurements.

At the end of the description of each book a list is given of the libraries, public and private, where copies are preserved. In the case of books printed by Caxton, when more than four or five copies are known, only those in the four most accessible libraries are mentioned; for the remainder the reader is referred to M. de Ricci's Census of Caxtons [Bibliographical Society's Illustrated Monographs XV]. Occasionally some copies not mentioned by de Ricci have been noted.

The asterisk denotes that the copies so marked have been examined by the author, and in the case of those in the British Museum by Dr. Thomas as well, who also made the collations and descriptions of some unique books from private libraries lent for examination to the Museum.

To Dr. Thomas very special thanks are due for assisting in every possible way in the production of the present book. Besides correcting and amplifying the notices of Museum books and describing special copies, he has, during the whole of the printing, read and revised the proofs, and made many valuable suggestions and improvements.

The author gratefully thanks all the librarians and owners of books who have allowed him to examine the books under their charge. In the case of Cathedral and College Libraries these facilities were often afforded at considerable inconvenience, but with unfailing kindness. Private owners also have most generously made their treasures available.

Special thanks are due to M. Polain of the Bibliothèque Nationale, Mr. A. C. de Burgh of Trinity College, Dublin, and Mr. E. V. Stocks of Durham University, for detailed information regarding certain books.

* St. John's College, Cambridge.

* * This cannot have been an edition of the whole Doctrinale. It probably consisted of the part De nominum generibus' only.

The two leaves were found in the binding of a copy of Godscalci Preceptorium [Koburger, Nuremberg, 1505]. In the library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, is a copy of Fortalitium Fidei [J. de Romoys, Lyons, 1511] in an exactly similar binding and having also as end papers two leaves of the Oxford Anwykyll. It is clear that the same man must have bound these two books about the same time, as we find leaves from one and the same vellum manuscript used in both, along with the refuse Oxford leaves.

* U. L. C. [3 leaves, one signed hiii]. * Corpus Christi College, Cambridge [2 leaves, one signed niii]. * Trinity College, Cambridge [1 leaf, signed di].

* * This edition differs from the following in the height and width of the page, and the signatures are in a different type. As one of the known leaves is signed niii, it must have been a larger book than the following edition, which ends with signature m. As the Vulgaria Terentii by these printers (No. 393) begins on signature n, it was not printed to supplement this edition.

As signature di contains a portion of Part II, [diiii] the end of Part II and beginning of Part III, hiii a portion of Part III, and niii a portion of Part IV, it is clear that in this edition the four parts came in their correct order. After niii there was sufficient text to fill six more leaves.

The heading on 6b must surely come before 'The service for the moneth of Ianyuere', and the dishes for the first two months should be completed by those for March—December. The heading in the middle of 8ª 'Here endeth the the heading in the made of 8- life chading the kalender of the boke of Cokery' should come after the missing December. Richard Pynson, London, n. d. * * This book was first noted by Denis in his supplement to Maittaire, and he quotes it on the authority of the catalogue of the Royal Library, Vienna. Beloe (Anecdotes, vol. v, pp. 255–260) describes a copy which he had seen in the Bishop of Ely's library, and states definitely that it had Pynson's device on the first leaf. It is most probable, however, that he had confused the devices of Pynson and Le Talleur, which are not unlike, and that the edition he saw was that printed by the latter, of which there are copies in the British Museum, at Chatsworth, and at Rouen.

* * A comparison with Copland's undated edition shows that this edition was mainly, if not entirely, made up of quires of eight leaves, and that the present leaves are the first, seventh, and eighth of quire l.

These leaves were discovered in 1860 by E.F.B. in the binding of a copy of Maydeston's Directorium sacerdotum printed by Pynson in 1501 [Notes and Queries, 2nd Ser. X.46]. Only two copies of this book are known, one in Ripon Cathedral, the other in the British Museum, so that it is almost certain the leaves came from the binding of the latter.

 I found this fragment in 1890 used to line the binding of a copy of Ioannes de Ianua, Catholicon, printed at Lyons by Nicholas Wolff in 1503. The stamps on the binding were those which came to Wynkyn de Worde from Caxton, and there were also used as end-papers some leaves from Wynkyn de Worde's Horae of 1502, and a leaf from Caxton's press. The initials are printed in red, and there are neat woodcuts.

INDULGENCES

Indulgences were issued either for one beneficiary (single issue) or for several (plural issue). They were mostly or always printed in sheets, with two variant settings-up on each half sheet, which have usually been divided for separate use. Besides the Indulgences issued to the laity, Licences to the clergy for granting absolution in cases usually reserved for a Bishop or the Pope were also printed.

 The B.M. and Morgan copies were discovered in the original binding of a copy of Caxton's Royal Book formerly in the Bedfordshire General Library. They were used to line the front board of the binding, and there were signs that two others had been originally pasted on the other board. When the volume was sold in 1902 these indulgences were removed and sold separately. The British Museum copy has lost three lines at the top, the other the last ten or twelve letters of each line.

 In some copies of both settings-up the mistakes 'Innocentibus' and 'Innocentib' have been corrected to 'Innocentius' and 'Innocenti' respectively.

Six sheets, each containing two copies of each setting-up of the Indulgence, some cut down and imperfect, were found in the binding of a copy of the Biblia Latina cum postillis, printed by Paganinus de Paganinis at Venice in 1495 [Proctor 5170]. The binding of brown calf, early sixteenth-century work, was tooled with the roll of an English binder, with his initials L. V. L. and his mark.

All the copies of the Indulgence, though unused, had had the seal placed on them and the sign of the notary added in ink.

* * It is very difficult to determine whether this is really a product of the press of Machlinia, or whether it was not rather printed by Veldener, whose type seems to be identical with that used by Machlinia. In the present book the type is singularly fresh and clear, whereas in most of Machlinia's productions it is blurred and thick.

Their use as early as this makes it probable that Wynkyn de Worde issued an edition in the fifteenth century of which all trace has disappeared. The woodcuts are nos. 2 and 8 of the set of eleven.  This book was one used for the schools in Oxford. It is found frequently mentioned in John Dorne's daybook of 1520 as 'Bene fundatum', 'Bene fundatum Oxonie', and 'Bene fundatum vosgraf' at prices ranging from one penny to twopence. The name 'vosgraf' of the last entry may represent a possible author Foxgrave. A copy of an edition of this book printed at Paris, probably before 1500, in the Cambridge University Library contains manuscript notes relating to Oxford, while another edition was printed by Peter Treveris in 1527 for the Oxford bookseller John Dorne or Thorne mentioned above. Pynson printed for George Chastelayn, the Oxford bookseller, an edition of the grammar called Informatio Puerorum (No. 223) about the end of the fifteenth century, and in 1506 an edition of the Principia of Peregrinus de Lugo, so that the present book may have also been printed for him.

 Only two leaves of the Kalendar exist, and it is hard to settle whether the first gathering contained eight or ten leaves. On comparison with other editions ten seems the correct number, and this is rendered still more likely by the fact that neither of the two exist-ing leaves, containing March and April, September and October, has a watermark, and if the gathering had been in 8 they would have been the two halves of the same sheet, and therefore one would have had a watermark.

The staves only of the music are printed, and the English portion of the marriage service is written in

 From the wording, this is clearly a translation from a foreign language, probably from one of Jaspar Laet's Prognostications. One fragment has signature a 1, so the book had clearly no title-page. It appears to relate mostly to forecasts for weather.

*Bodleian [Douce fragments].

 There is a reference in the text to the great rising of Cornishmen as having taken place the preceding year [1497], so that the prognostication was clearly for 1498 and was thus printed at the end of 1497. This date is also made certain by the fact that amongst the children of Henry VII, Mary, who was born in 1498, is not mentioned.

Properties. The Properties and Medicines for a Horse.

4°. Wynkyn de Worde, [Westminster,]

 This book was quoted by Ames, and his entry was copied by Herbert and Dibdin. He says it has the mark VV C backward, and this can only apply to Wynkyn de Worde's device 2, in which the trade-mark is reversed, or another device used in and before 1502, in which the C is reversed. If the book contains the first device it was printed before 1500, if the second it was printed between 1500 and 1502. Dibdin in some manuscript memoranda [J. R. L.] speaks of a copy in the library at Wentworth [Earl Fitzwilliam] which is probably the copy that was in the Harleian Library.

Reynard the Fox.

Wynkyn de Worde, Westminster, n. d.

 Though no trace of this book is now known, it seems almost certain that an edition of the book must have been printed in the fifteenth century by Wynkyn de Worde. A series of woodcuts to illustrate it was certainly in existence, and we find two at least used in other books. One is on the first leaf of Lidgate's The Horse, the Sheep, and the Goose, and depicts the lion with crown and sceptre opening the court to try Reynard [Chapters I-III]. Another is on the first leaf of Skelton's Bowge of Court, showing the bear carrying a letter to Reynard [Chapter VII].

In a private collection [F. Jenkinson] a fragment of two leaves of an edition of the book evidently

In a private collection [F. Jenkinson] is a fragment of two leaves of an edition of the book, evidently printed by Wynkyn de Worde about 1515, and this contains a third woodcut agreeing absolutely in size and workmanship with the other two.

 Though no copy or fragment of this edition is known, there is very little doubt that Wynkyn de Worde must have issued an edition during the fifteenth century. He was in possession of a set of the woodcuts to illustrate it, copies of those in Leeu's edition of 1490, and some of these he used in his edition of Legrand's Book of Good Manners, 1499. The full set of woodcuts would have numbered eleven. About 1505 Wynkyn de Worde issued an edition of the book and of this there is an imperfect copy in the the book, and of this there is an imperfect copy in the British Museum containing seven of the woodcuts, but wanting woodcuts I, 4, 10, and II.
